

Training course for youth workers

'Social mentoring as innovative training pathway to lifestyle self-employment'

Module II.

Facilitating the social mentoring process on LSE by using the set of open educational resources (OERs) on Life-Style Entrepreneurship

Exercise 1.

Different kinds of Entrepreneurship

The aim of the exercise:

To discuss common European approaches regarding entrepreneurship, gain theoretical knowledge regarding the different kinds of entrepreneurship and understand the differences.

The tasks of the exercise:

Follow steps below: in steps 1, 3 discuss with the whole group, in step 2 small groups (3-5 people) are encourage to share and discuss.

Step 1. Present to the group the main definition of entrepreneurship and what are the main characteristics of Entrepreneurship?

Step 2. The participants are separated in small groups (3-5 people). Each group is encouraged to discuss the different kinds of entrepreneurship they know. The participants can use every resource they want: their phones, internet, etc. Then all of the groups are encouraged to sit together and discuss their findings. Each group has to present what they know regarding the different kinds of entrepreneurship.

Step 3. The participants should find the most common approaches regarding entrepreneurship that are found by all groups. The participants are encouraged to discuss which of the kinds and why is the closest to them

The learning outcomes:

- Learners will able to recognize and describe different kinds of entrepreneurship,
- Learners will able to confidently define the main principles of entrepreneurship.

The total duration: 60 minutes